The Joint Center for Political and Economic Studies' Health Policy Institute, in cooperation with the Academy for Educational Development cordially invites you, and 7-10 of the young people you serve, to a community discussion focused on reproductive health strategies for young men of color. The goals of the discussion are to gain insight and share current innovative approaches in reproductive health, and to develop recommendations on how to better strengthen health outcomes for young men of color. We anticipate an exciting, solutions focused discussion and look forward to your attendance. Please RSVP no later than June 30th to Nivedita Das (ndas@aed.org)/(202)884-8994). Light snacks and beverages will be served. This forum will be an exciting opportunity, organized by a task force of 18-25 year old young men and women, where young people in your community will have a chance to speak to their peers, and help to develop recommendations for innovative approaches to reproductive health.
